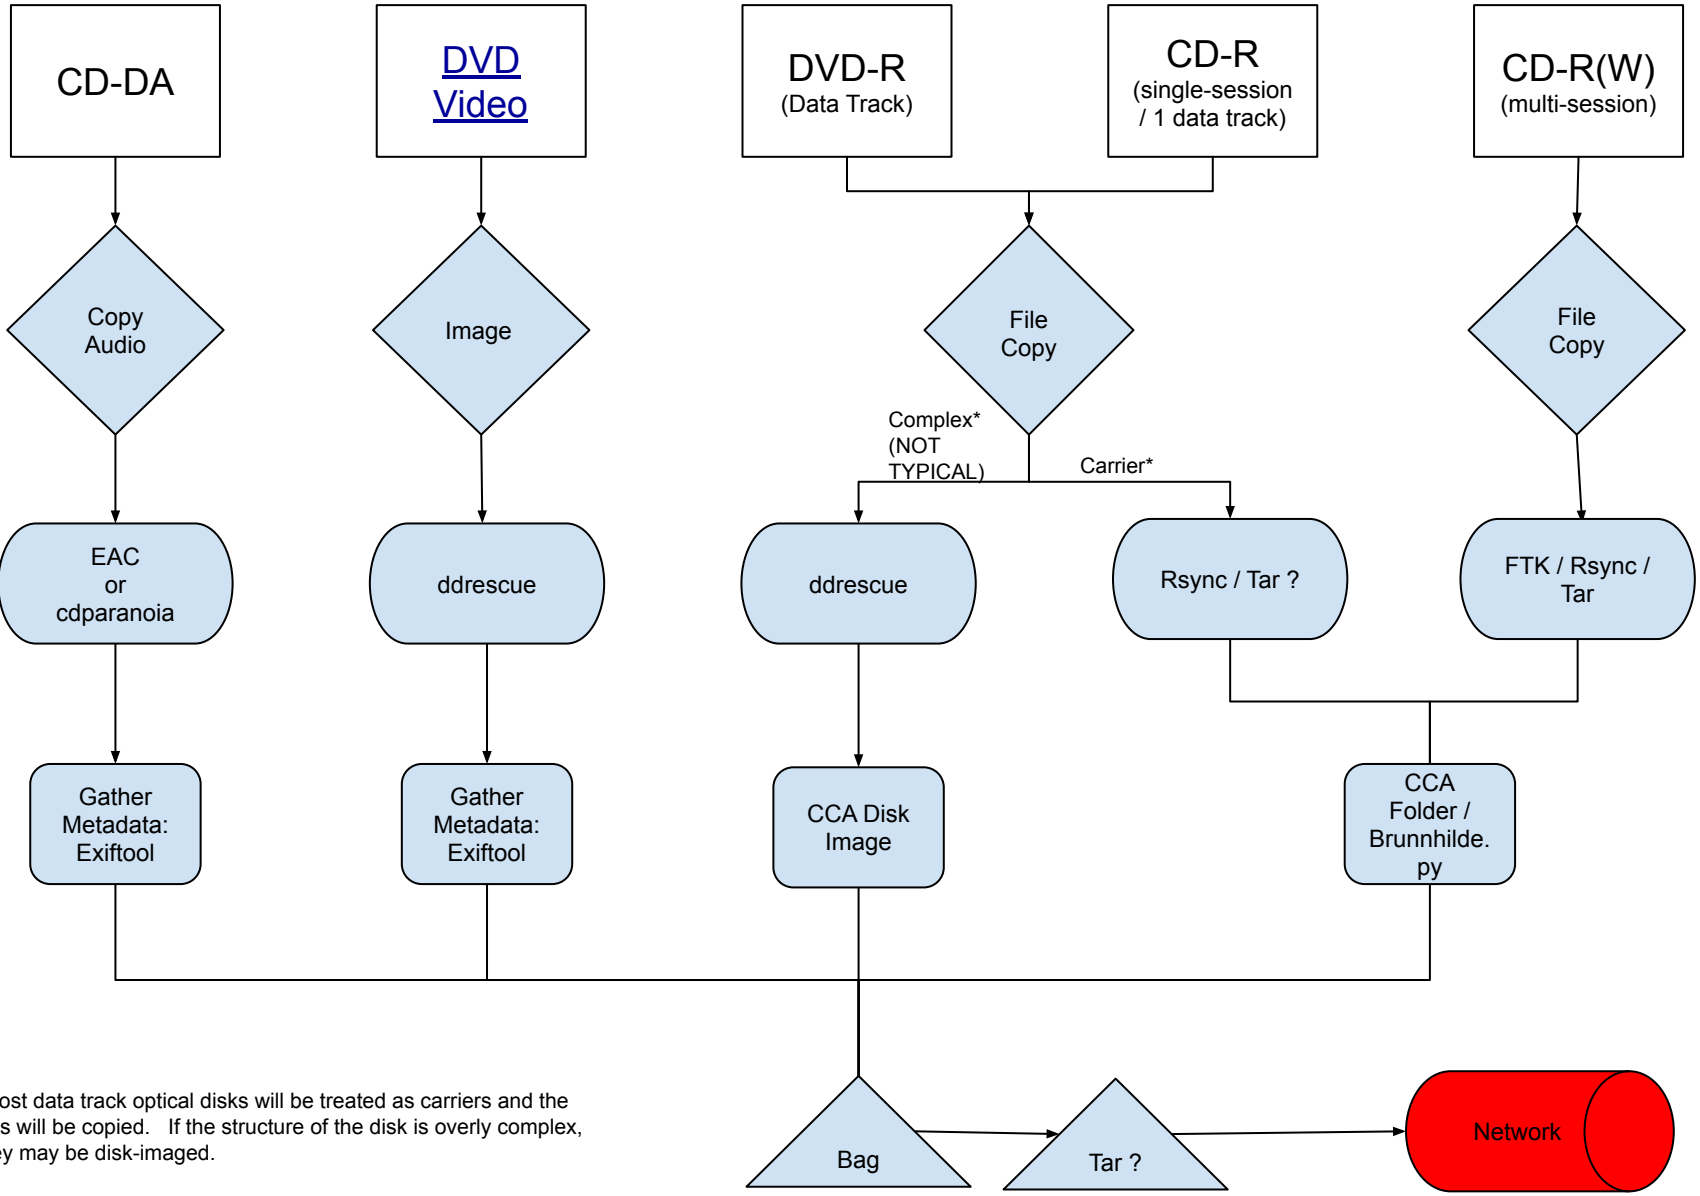
Command line tool (on MAC) drutil status will identify the following optical disk types:



*Most data track optical disks will be treated as carriers and the files will be copied. If the structure of the disk is overly complex, they may be disk-imaged.